

Literacy Teaching Empowered by Data and Assessment: Grades K-6

Instructors: Ellen A. Thompson, Ed. D. with June Golato, M.S., CCC-SLP

NEW Start Date!

February 11 – May 9, 2016

Hybrid: ONLINE with CVEDCVT.edu20 including 4 face-to-face meet-ups

3 Graduate Credits (St. Michael's)

This 3 credit course will focus on the expectations (and significant instructional shifts) for teaching with the English-Language Arts Common Core State Standards (ELA CCSS) for reading and writing. Participants will focus energy on four steps for using assessment data to create goal-driven instruction for students. Time will be spent on understanding how to collect, analyze, interpret and use assessment and data about students' reading and writing strengths and needs to form goal-driven instructional planning.

Participants will choose three students to follow throughout the duration of this course, collecting, analyzing and interpreting data on these students to produce and try out individual goal setting with them. From these personalized goals will come a 3-week literacy instructional plan that supports these students in achieving their instructional goals. All participants will use EDU20, a cloud-hosted Learning Management System for large group and strand discussions, assignments, readings, etc.

This class will help teachers pull it all together – CCSS instructional shifts, data-informed teaching and student-centered goal setting with students in your current class. Combine that with having most of the class time online and including two fabulous books and this is a Win/Win for busy educators!
