Collaborative Professional Learning to Support Vermont Schools

Summer Google Workshops: Google Forms, Google Drawing, Google Slides & YouTube Facilitated by Lisa Barry & Joanne Finnegan

Target Audience: Teachers, Para-educators, Support Personnel

This hands-on day long workshop will include how to create and use Google Forms, particularly in the classroom. Forms can be used to create quizzes, gather information, and to have people sign up for events. Participants will also learn the basics of Google Drawing, a possible alternative to Microsoft Publisher, and how to integrate it into other Google Products. YouTube has several features that make editing video and creating photo slideshows quick and easy. Google Slides, a presentation editor, similar to PowerPoint, will also be introduced. Participants will explore ways these Google products can be used both in the classroom and in personal life.

Note: CVEDC has Chromebooks available for use that day, although you might prefer to bring your own device.
