

Champlain Valley Educator Development Center

Collaborative Professional Learning to Support Vermont Schools

The UDL Approach: Design & Deliver Planning & Teaching Using Universal Design for Learning a 2-year hybrid series

Facilitated by Loui Lord Nelson, Ph.D.

Target Audience: Teacher Teams and Building-Based Teams including special educators, paraprofessionals, coaches, etc.

This UDL series will span 2021-2023 and is an opportunity for educators to gain information about the UDL framework design and intent and create and implement a team plan for implementation.

In addition to 2 full day in-person sessions each year, there will be asynchronous, virtual sessions as well as 45-minute consults with each team mid-year. The design is to help teams gain a deeper understanding of the framework, including what it means to be an expert learner and what rigor looks like. Teams will have the opportunity to work where they are with the framework.

Book Study with Loui: Design & Deliver: Planning & Teaching Using Universal Design for Learning : Choose from one of three hour-long sessions in August, October and February.

Year 1 will focus on:

- Understanding and applying from the roots of UDL
- Taking initial or continued steps with the three principles, and
- The forces that support or inhibit UDL implementation

Year 2 will focus on: Using UDL to Reach All Learners and teachers will see the framework as a tool to design culturally responsive environments and applying what we know about the brain to the design of your environments.

Loui Lord Nelson, Educational Consultant and owner of the UDL Approach, is an international leader in universal design for learning (UDL) implementation. She is the author of three books and a card game about UDL and hosts the popular podcasts UDL in 15 Minutes and UDL Research in 15 Minutes.
