Collaborative Professional Learning to Support Vermont Schools

Special Education for Classroom Teachers: What You Need to Know

Facilitated by Meagan Roy, CVSD Dir. of Student Support Services and Erin Maguire, EWSD Director of Equity and Inclusion

Target Audience: Educators K-12

Classroom teachers, in collaboration with their special education colleagues, are the single most important influence in a student's life. Supporting, accommodating and instructing students with special education needs is an integral part of every teacher's work. Join us to learn about your critical role delivering first instruction to all of your students.

Teachers will:

- Understand the tenets of universal design and the importance of creating educational programming that reaches each learner in the classroom
- Understand basic special education requirements and regulations critical for classroom teachers
- Learn about recent Vermont legislation around the implementation of multi-tiered systems of supports and special education rule changes that impact educators
